How has the Boehly Center impacted you:
The Boehly Center was pivotal to my success as a student and a young professional. I first began my relationship with the Boehly Center in my sophomore year when I was seeking guidance for internship and externship opportunities. They were able to help me carve out a path to take to help me network and find opportunities. Later that year, they encouraged me to take part in the Alumni Mentorship program to help broaden my network and expand my business acumen. Lastly, they motivated me to take up a leadership role in the Finance Academy and the Peer Mentorship Program to edify my leadership skills. I can’t express enough how much gratitude I have for the Boehly Center and my experience is not an anomaly. When I speak to students and alumni alike, the same sentiment is shared. The Boehly Center is quintessential to the success of Business School students.

Update: Bloomberg for Education Terminal

Bloomberg for Education Terminal

Bloomberg for Education is a knowledge terminal where learners can receive "real-world insights" and bring those experiences into their learning environment. Students can practice on platforms similar to what they will be using in their future endeavors at banks, government agencies, corporations, or other industrial avenues across multiple arenas.

W&M students can access the Bloomberg Market Concepts course to receive certification via the Bloomberg terminals available in the Financial Markets Lab and in McLeod Business Library in Miller Hall. This is a change. Remote completion of the certification is no longer available as it was during the pandemic.

For more information on how to access the terminals in Miller Hall, email mcleodlibrary@wm.edu or visit the McLeod Business Library during open hours.
