

Early Career Success

Alice Davison

Retired

Former Senior Vice President at Capital Group

Alice Davison spent over three decades at one of the world's premier investment companies, Capital Group, whose mission is to improve people's lives through successful investing. Alice built, grew and led a global talent function responsible for recruiting and assessing exceptional analysts and investors. As a senior leader, she demonstrated an unwavering commitment to cultivating human potential, forging high-performing teams, shaping the organizational culture, and delivering outstanding business results. Her most recent title was Senior Vice President, Head of Capital Associates Program & Early Investor Development. She previously served as Vice President of Global Investment Group Talent Acquisition. With a strategic focus on identifying talent and developing people, Alice led the creation and implementation of recruiting, development, and diversity programs that have left lasting marks on a 92-year-old firm now managing more than $2.5 trillion. She earned her bachelor's degree in economics from Bowdoin College and an MBA with distinction from New York University's Leonard N. Stern School of Business. She is a Trustee of Far Brook School in Short Hills, New Jersey, and a Trustee of the William & Mary Business School Foundation in Williamsburg, Virginia. She is a founder of the Women's Stock Pitch at William & Mary. Alice recently completed 12 years of Board service at the Forte Foundation. Alice and Howard (Tomb) live in Summit, New Jersey. Their blended family includes three well-behaved adult children and two naughty French Bulldogs.
